

Marathon Makeover

Homeowners and stager work furiously to completely transform an incomplete home in just 4 hours. What's missing? A couch in the living room, table in the dining room, and stools for the kitchen island, for starters.

Bar stools are borrowed from a friend, card table from basement makes a nice dining room table, and sectional is broken apart to give the living room that needed couch. Art and accessories are also found in the basement.

Only items purchased – new bedding, pillow for sitting area and tablecloth. Owner's neighbor is so impressed with the transformation she contacts AtWell Staged Home to assist with her home – which is not for sale.

Sellers receive a good offer, but turn it down and decide not to sell after all. Could the staging have changed their minds? Maybe.
