

It Could Happen to You!

Think you can't sell in this market? Think your home has to look like a Pottery Barn catalog before listing? Think again.

This couple is desperate to sell quickly due to relocation. To limit a commute from New York to Florida, clients use just what they have to stage their home to sell.

Agent-paid 2-hour consultation leads to an accepted offer in the first listing week.

It can happen to you too, when you stage, price it right, and have the skills and support of a great agent.
